WALTER RUSSELL MEAD

JAMES CLARK CHASE PROFESSOR OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS AND HUMANITIES AT BARD COLLEGE

Reverend Eugene Rivers has worked on community development, faith-based initiatives, and domestic and foreign policy issues for 35 years. He has advised both the Bush and Clinton Administrations on their faith-based initiatives and on the foreign policy regarding the AIDS crisis in Africa. As a highly sought-after speaker, he has provided commentary for ABC (Prime Time, Nightline, and ABC Morning News), NBC (Hardball and MSNBC), CBS (CBS Evening News, Sixty Minutes II), PBS (Charlie Rose, Bill Moyers Show) and Fox Television (The O'Reilly Factor)

Walter Russell Mead is Editor-at-Large of The American Interest and one of the country's leading thinkers on American foreign policy. Until 2011, he was also a Brady-Johnson Distinguished Fellow in Grand Strategy at Yale, where he had taught in the Yale International Security Studies Program since 2008. His works include Special Providence: American Foreign Policy and How It Changed the World, which won the Lionel Gerber Award for Best book in English on international relations in 2002, and he is currently working on a book about the United States and Israel
